

The assign mechanism may take into consideration various issues

- the interactions the object is capable of
- the policy framework applicable for controlling the object
- the conformance between the object's and the community's policy values
- the assignment policy that may additionally restrict or prioritize assignment based on object identity, object relationship to other objects, object membership in other communities, technological features --- i.e., various features as allowed by the description language